

BARBARA BÖSIGER

I completed my entire schooltime at the School for Visually Impaired and Blind people in Baar. Afterwards, I attended the Primary School Teacher Seminar in Menzingen. I met my husband, Roy Bösigler, at the Goalball European Championship in Leuven, Belgium. After working for five years as a primary school teacher, we took the big adventure together and moved to Los Angeles. Through my husband's studies, I was introduced to chiropractic and often served as a "test subject." I trained as a Chiropractic Assistant at the Los Angeles College of Chiropractic. Occasionally, I helped out at a chiropractor's office in the back office.

After returning to Switzerland, I worked as an English teacher for three years before our daughter, Andrina Petra, was born in 2007. Besides hiking, skiing, tandem biking, music, and cooking, Goalball remains one of my biggest hobbies.

I am always impressed by how chiropractic and Applied Kinesiology work and am convinced of their holistic approach to viewing and treating the human body.
